Other Matters of Interest.

Special Correspondence of the BAZOO.

NEVADA, July 24.

News from Nevada have been somewhat limited of late. Your correspondent will, therefore, dish up a few facts relative to the ways and doings of the Gem City.

THE LETARD-JENKS CASE

has been exciting the people of the city for the past week, and from the first the sympathy of nearly every one was inclined to be in favor of Mrs. Jenks. She was arrested in Chicago by Detective Warwick, of Kansas City, and brought here on Thursday, the 19th. Dr. Letard, of Kansas City, accompanied by his attorney, came down on the morning train Friday, and the case was called that evening. Nothing at all was done with the doctor and he returned that evening to Kansas City. Mrs. Jenks was lodged in jail that night to again appear the following morning at 9 o'clock but in the meantime considerable feeling had been worked up against Dr. Letard because he blamed Mrs. Jenks with the whole business, he claiming to have been duped by her. Saturday morning she appeared before Judge Davis, and the whole forenoon was spent in arguing for a continuance by the prosecution, they wanting Warwick and Letard, of Kansas City, and Phil Armour, of Chicago, and one or two others as witnesses.

The motion was granted and the case continued till the 26th.

At 5 o'clock Saturday evening the syndicate surrendered unconditionally, and she left on the 6:20 train for Kansas City, accompanied by her lawyer. Now, what is bothering the syndicate boys is,

WILL MRS. JENKS SUE THEM

for false imprisonment and defaming her character? There is one thing sure, the boys have learned a good lesson, and the old adage is good that says "experience is the best teacher." We feel sorry for the boys, of course, but they have learned a lesson that they will not soon forget.

IN RELIGIOUS CIRCLES

The Sabbath was observed by all. The many different churches were well attended, morning and evening. At the Methodist church, Rev. James M. Stultz, of Carterville, Jasper county, filled the pulpit in the place of Rev. W. T. McGuire, who is visiting relatives at Newho, Mo. Mr. Stultz preached a splendid sermon.

At the Baptist church, Rev. Carmichael discoursed in the morning on "Religion in Business and a Business Religion," Luke xvi. 10; and in the evening on "The People's Good Resolves."

At the Cumberland Presbyterian church Rev. R. B. Ward preached from the text of "Consecration," Exodus xxix. 20, both morning and evening.

Rev. Browne, of the Episcopal church, preached both morning and evening upon "The Unseen World." His discourse was an excellent one.

Well, boys, that is all right; come ahead, for our boys have not got up enough to try and stop it, and may you succeed.

ATTORNEYS ADJOURNED.

Second Day's Session of the Missouri Bar Association at Sweet Springs.

A Number of News Notes and a Few Questions Asked,

Second Day.

Special to the BAZOO.

SWEET SPRINGS, Mo., July 26.

The Bar association met at 10 o'clock a. m., many seats being vacant.

A report on amendments to the by-laws was made. Among other things it recommended the changing of the time of holding the meeting of the association to any time between June 1st and August 1st of each year.

"The legal profession, its duties and responsibilities" was the title of an able paper read by Luther T. Clotier, of Chillicothe, Mo., which was ordered filed.

Judge C. G. Burton, of Nevada read a short but pointed paper on "service by publication."

"Evidence in mitigation of homicide" a paper, was read by A. Comingo. It attracted considerable attention as it put forth some new ideas of the admission of certain kinds of evidence in homicide cases.

John E. McKiegan, of St. Louis, delivered really the best paper that has been before the association at this meeting. It was on "principle vs. case."

A communication was received from S. B. Gordon, of St. Louis, which was referred to a proper committee.

Section fourteen of the by-laws was so amended that it could be determined by the executive committee as to the time between June 1st and August 1st of each year that the Bar association should meet.

A resolution of thanks was offered—and adopted—to the officers of the association and the gentleman who read papers before the association.

The ticket agent at Brownsville sent a communication to the association, asking all who desired to leave in the morning and purchase tickets to-night to avoid a rush at that time.

The officers selected by the general council were elected by acclamation.

Adjourned sine die.

NOTES.

—The Grand hotel, Wednesday and Thursday, had about 350 guests, who have been admirably cared for, taking into consideration the rush. Table d'hôte has been all that could be desired, and the proprietors, Hall & Walton, have been untiring in their efforts to make everybody's stay pleasant.

—Dee Reese, of Warsaw, was mistaken for the fair reporteress of the Kansas City Journal, by proxy. An apology is due to somebody. The BAZOO is not able to decide where the apology should come from.

—Judge DeBolt was sick in room No. 24, of the Grand hotel, Wednesday night. He had an attack of cholera morbus, but to-day is much better.

—It was 3 o'clock this morning before the banquet hall was deserted.

—B. G. Boone is in his room sick—not seriously.

OSCEOLA.

Joe P. Landes Sued for $25,000
by John J. Spencer, a Merchant.

A Vast Array of Legal Talent
Hope to Secure a Favorable Verdict.

The St. Joseph Historical Company has Failed to Give Satisfaction.

And a Second Suit of Huge Proportions Promises to be the Result.

Correspondence of the BAZOO.

Osceola, July 23, 1883.—A very interesting and important suit was filed in the office of the circuit clerk last Saturday by the attorneys of John J. Spencer against James P. Landes, as cashier of the St. Clair County Bank. The facts in the case seem to be that about two years ago John J. Spencer engaged in the furniture business here in a small way, and so continued until May, 1882, at which time he sold out to Samuel Replogle, the latter giving a mortgage on the stock, the payment of which was to be made at the St. Clair County Bank, and the proceeds thereof to be applied on the payment of the outstanding indebtedness of Mr. Spencer. Mr. Spencer had no other personal or real property and judging from the size of the mortgage and outstanding indebtedness, he was reported as insolvent through the Commercial reporter's agents.

The returns on the mortgage were slow in coming in, and the bank lifted Mr. Spencer's paper in St. Louis at fifty cents on the dollar. In the settlement with Mr. Spencer, in April, 1883, the bank charged him par value on his paper, which Mr. Spencer afterward ascertained they obtained at a discount. This so aggrieved him that he consulted attorneys and had a suit instituted against the bank for damage to plaintiff's commercial character, alleging that damage to be $25,000. Pat Dyer, Henry and Julius Laughlin, of St. Louis; Mead & Neal, A. E. Ross and C. J. Harrison, of Osceola, and J. R. Hopkins, of Appleton City, are plaintiff's attorneys, while the defendant will be represented by Johnson & Lucas, of this place.

When the St. Joseph Historical Publishing company were delivering the history of Henry and St. Clair counties, last week, many subscribers refused to take the work, on account of its great inferiority. The matter was left with an attorney to bring suit against them for the price of the book and damage. The persons refusing to take the work are some of our best citizens, and will fight it to the bitter end. We consider the work a first-class fraud, and any county that allows the St. Joseph Historical society to write their history is going to be taken in badly.

FIENDISH FANNIE.

She Deliberately Sent a Ball
Through Her Lover's Body
Yesterday Morning.

Special to the BAZOO.

EUFALA, I. T., July 24.

One of the most cold blooded murders that ever took place in the territory was reported to the officers here at an early hour this morning.

For some months past a negro named John Williams and his mistress, known as Fannie Williams, have been making their home with Mr. and Mrs. James Crabtree, in Euflala.

Last night Fannie accompanied another negro to a wedding in the country, returning about midnight. A quarrel arose between Williams and his mistress, during the progress of which he beat her, and then retired, soon falling asleep.

About 2 o'clock this morning Fannie went to the bed where Williams was sleeping, and placing a revolver at his breast, fired a ball through his heart, killing him almost instantly. The affair produced the greatest excitement, which was increased by the report that the woman had escaped. She was, however, captured about daybreak and is now in custody here.

ANOTHER MURDER.

A Woman Dies from the Effects of a Violent Kick.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Another murder, in which the victim was a woman, and the circumstances of which were particularly distressing, has been added to the already long list. Last night Mrs. Maggy Monahan died at the Female Hospital, after a lingering illness of many days, brought about, it was reported, by a beating or kicking she had received long ago. The police of the various districts were questioned, but they knew of no such occurrence. Finally it was rumored that the slain woman had lived at Twenty-third and Division streets, but the officers of the third district, in whose territory that locality is situated, were unable to trace up any such affair. At last a reporter set about investigating the case, and discovered that it dated back a considerable time. On the Fourth the police were notified to arrest a well-known peddler of Kerv Patch for an assault upon Mrs. Monahan. This lady lived with her husband on Twenty-third street, between O'Fallon and Cass avenue, near the Polish Catholic church. On the morning of the 31 she became involved in a quarrel with the peddler and struck him with a huge conch shell which was used as a household ornament. He returned the blow with a violent kick in the abdomen. Mrs. Monahan was at that time in a very interesting condition, and the following morning she gave premature birth to a child. The midwife not attending her, pronounced her condition not serious, but the husband invoked the assistance of the police, and so it was that the order for arrest was given. A few hours later, before they had captured her assailant, they were notified that they might cease their search, as the husband had compromised matters, and no prosecution would be instituted. A reporter who visited the house, was ejected with threats of violence and firm denial of any such occurrence as is narrated above, or even of the presence of the woman in her own dwelling. It seems, however, that Mrs. Monahan was more seriously injured than was imagined, and when she grew worse was removed to the hospital. Her death last night was the last scene in one act of tragedy. Rightly informed, the police will now exert themselves to capture and bring to justice the man who is believed to be responsible for her taking off.

William Whalen is the name of the man who is alleged to have kicked the unfortunate woman. The police will at once cause him to be placed under arrest.
